DECISION AND ORDER

May 18, 2015

Before the Authority: Carol Waller Pope, Chairman, and Ernest DuBester and Patrick Pizzella, Members
(Member Pizzella dissenting)

I. Statement of the Case

In the attached decision, a Federal Labor Relations Authority (FLRA) Administrative Law Judge (Judge) found that the Respondent violated § 7116(a)(1)
and (5) of the Federal Service Labor-Management Relations Statute (the Statute)1 by refusing to bargain with the Charging Party (Union) over compressed work schedules for certain employees whom the Union represents (bargaining-unit employees). The question before us is whether the Judge erred because the “covered-by” doctrine (described further below) excused the Respondent’s refusal to bargain. The answer is no, because the parties’ agreement required the Respondent to bargain, and the “covered by” doctrine does not apply in those circumstances.

II. Background and Judge’s Decision

We summarize the relevant facts only briefly here, as they are set out in more detail in the Judge’s decision.

The Union asked the Respondent to negotiate over a compressed work schedule for correctional-services officers who work in the Respondent’s housing units. The Respondent refused, asserting that Article 18, Section (d) (Article 18(d)) and Article 18, Section (g) (Article 18(g)) of the parties’ master agreement “covers” – and, thus, that the Respondent had no further duty to bargain over – compressed work schedules.2 The Union responded, claiming that Article 18, Section (b) (Article 18(b)) of the master agreement provides for bargaining over compressed work schedules, and that the Respondent previously had bargained over and approved such schedules for employees in departments other than the housing units. The Respondent then replied by stating that Article 18(b) did not require further bargaining and that Articles 18(d) and (g) do not apply to the employees in the non-housing departments.

Subsequently, the Union filed a charge, and the FLRA’s General Counsel (GC) issued a complaint, alleging that the Respondent’s refusal to bargain violated § 7116(a)(1) and (5). The Respondent filed a motion for summary judgment, and the GC filed both a response to the Respondent’s summary-judgment motion and a cross-motion for summary judgment. The Judge determined that summary judgment was appropriate and, thus, did not hold a hearing.

The Judge addressed the terms of Article 18 of the master agreement, which is entitled “Hours of Work.”3 Article 18(b) provides, in pertinent part: “The parties at the national level agree that requests for flexible and/or compressed work schedules may be negotiated at the local level, in accordance with 5 [U.S.C.]”4 Article 18(d) provides, in pertinent part:

Quarterly rosters for [c]orrectional [s]ervices employees will be prepared in accordance with the below-listed procedures.

- 1. a roster committee will be formed which will consist of representative(s) of [the Respondent] and the Union
. . . .
2. seven (7) weeks prior to the upcoming quarter, the [Respondent] will ensure that a blank roster for the upcoming quarter will be posted in an area that is accessible to all correctional

- staff, for the purpose of giving those employees advance notice of assignments, days off, and shifts that are available for which they will be given the opportunity to submit their preference requests. Normally, there will be no changes to the blank roster after it is posted;
- a. employees may submit preference requests for assignment, shift, and days off, or any combination thereof, up to the day before the roster committee meets . . . .
  - b. employee preference requests will be signed and dated by the employee and submitted to the [c]aptain or designee . . . .
  - c. if multiple preference requests are submitted by an employee, the request with the most recent date will be the only request considered; and
  - d. the roster committee will consider preference requests in order of seniority and will make reasonable efforts to grant such requests . . . .
3. the roster committee will meet and formulate the roster assignments no later than five (5) weeks prior to the effective date of the quarter change;
  4. the committee's roster will be posted and accessible to all [c]orrectional [s]ervices employees no later than the Friday following the roster committee meeting;
  5. once the completed roster is posted, all [c]orrectional [o]fficers will have one (1) week to submit any complaints or concerns . . . . No later than the following Wednesday, [the Respondent] and the Union will meet to discuss the complaints or concerns received, and make any adjustments as needed;
  6. the roster will be forwarded to the [w]arden for final approval;
  7. the completed roster will be posted three (3) weeks prior to the effective dates of the quarter change. Copies of the roster will be given to the local [p]resident or designee at the time of posting; and
  8. the [Respondent] will make every reasonable effort, at the time of the quarter change, to ensure that no employee is required to work sixteen (16) consecutive hours against the employee's wishes.<sup>5</sup>
- Finally, Article 18(g) sets forth "[s]ick and annual relief procedures."<sup>6</sup>
- The Judge found that, "[c]onsistent with the [Flexible and Compressed Work Schedules] Act,<sup>[7]</sup> the plain language of Article [18(b)] expressly recognizes that local negotiations over compressed work schedules at the local level may take place and does not prohibit such negotiation on behalf of employees in any department, including correctional services."<sup>8</sup> She also determined that Article 18(d) "does not reference [Article 18(b)] or address compressed work schedules."<sup>9</sup> Instead, she found that Article 18(d) "merely provides that, to prepare a quarterly roster for correctional [-]services employees, the [Respondent] shall post a blank roster detailing available assignments and shifts that such employees can bid on, and a roster committee [consisting] of both [Respondent] and Union representatives will formulate roster assignments.”<sup>10</sup> And the Judge determined that Article 18(g) “relates to sick and annual [relief procedures] without any reference to compressed work schedules.”<sup>11</sup>

Additionally, the Judge noted the Respondent’s reliance on the U.S. Court of Appeals for the District of Columbia Circuit’s decision in Federal BOP v. FLRA,<sup>12</sup> but she found that reliance “misplaced.”<sup>13</sup> Specifically, she found that neither Federal BOP “nor the Authority’s related decisions addressed bargaining over compressed work schedules under” Article 18(b).<sup>14</sup>

The Judge concluded that the Respondent did not “raise[] a valid ‘covered[-]by’ defense,” and she concluded that the Respondent violated § 7116(a)(1) and (5) as the complaint alleged.<sup>15</sup> Accordingly, she granted the GC’s summary-judgment motion and dismissed the Respondent’s summary-judgment motion.

The Respondent filed exceptions to the Judge’s decision, and the GC filed an opposition to the Respondent’s exceptions.

III. Analysis and Conclusions

The Respondent argues that the compressed work schedule at issue is “covered by” the master agreement<sup>16</sup> – specifically, Article 18(d)<sup>17</sup> – and that, therefore, the Respondent did not violate the Statute by refusing to bargain.<sup>18</sup> Citing Federal BOP,<sup>19</sup> the Respondent contends that “although the [master agreement] allows for negotiations of compressed work schedules, it is evident from the plain language of [Article 18(d)] that for correctional[-]services employees, such challenges to the roster are preempted by the assignment process already established in Article 18 because the assignment of correctional[-]services [-]department employees had already been negotiated at the national level when the [master agreement] was signed.”<sup>20</sup> According to the Respondent, when Article 18(b) and Article 18(d) “are read together, [Article 18] provides that negotiations at the local level may occur over compressed work schedules for all bargaining[-]unit employees except those employees [who] work in correctional services.”<sup>21</sup>

The GC contends that the Judge correctly found that the matter of compressed work schedules is not “covered by” Article 18(d), because Article 18(b) “expressly preserved bargaining” over such schedules.<sup>22</sup> The GC disputes the Respondent’s statement that Article 18(b) does not apply to employees who work in correctional services.<sup>23</sup> In this regard, the GC asserts that “[t]he language of Article 18(b) is broad and does not exclude any portion of the bargaining unit or any organizational components of the Respondent.”<sup>24</sup> By contrast, the GC argues, Article 18(d) “merely details the quarterly roster process for employees in correctional services.”<sup>25</sup> Finally, the GC contends that the Judge correctly found that Federal BOP did not address bargaining over compressed work schedules under Article 18(b).<sup>26</sup>

The “covered-by” doctrine provides that the Statute does not require a party to bargain over matters that already have been resolved by bargaining.<sup>27</sup> An argument that a matter is “covered by” an agreement is an affirmative defense that a respondent has the burden of proving.<sup>28</sup> The Authority has declined to find a matter “covered by” an agreement where the agreement specifically contemplates bargaining.<sup>29</sup> In order to determine whether a judge correctly found that an agreement specifically contemplates bargaining, the Authority determines whether the judge’s interpretation is supported by the record and by the standards and principles applied by arbitrators and the federal courts.<sup>30</sup>

Here, the Judge found that the subject of compressed work schedules is not “covered by” Article 18, because Article 18(b) specifically contemplates bargaining over those schedules, and because Article 18(d) addresses only quarterly rosters – not compressed work schedules.<sup>31</sup> The plain wording of Article 18 supports the Judge’s finding. Specifically, as stated previously, Article 18(b) provides that “[t]he parties at the national level agree that requests for flexible and/or compressed work schedules may be negotiated at the local level, in accordance with 5 [U.S.C.].”<sup>32</sup> Contrary to the Respondent’s claim, nothing in this wording indicates that the obligation to bargain over compressed work schedules is limited to employees other than correctional-services employees. Further, Article 18(d) addresses only “procedures” for preparation of “[q]uarterly rosters”,<sup>33</sup> nothing in Article 18(d) discusses compressed work schedules.<sup>34</sup> (We note that, in its exceptions, the Respondent does not discuss the wording of Article 18(g), which, as stated previously, concerns “[s]ick and annual relief procedures.”<sup>35</sup>)

Moreover, nothing in Federal BOP supports a different interpretation. In that decision, the court held that Articles 18(d) and 18(g) “represent the agreement of the parties about the procedures by which a warden formulates a roster, assigns officers to posts, and designates officers for the relief shift.”<sup>36</sup> Consequently, the court found that the agency had no duty to bargain over its decision that “the quarterly roster for each institution should include only those posts deemed ‘critical’ to the mission of that institution.”<sup>37</sup> As the Judge noted, Federal BOP did not discuss compressed work schedules or Article 18(b) – which expressly provides for bargaining over such schedules. Thus, Federal BOP did not resolve the issue that is presented here, and the Respondent’s reliance on that decision does not demonstrate that the Judge erred.

For the above reasons, we find that the Respondent has not shown that the Judge erred in rejecting the Respondent’s “covered-by” defense. As a result, we deny the Respondent’s exceptions and find that the Respondent’s refusal to bargain over compressed work schedules violated § 7116(a)(1) and (5) of the Statute.<sup>38</sup> <sup>38</sup> Member DuBester notes the following: I agree with the decision to find that the Respondent violated § 7116(a)(1) and (5) of the Statute by refusing to bargain, and to find that, under Authority precedent, the Judge did not err in rejecting the Respondent’s “covered-by” defense. In doing so, I note again my reservations concerning the “covered-by” standard, and that “the Authority’s use of the covered-by standard warrants a fresh look.” SSA, Balt., Md., 66 FLRA 569, 576 (2012) (Dissenting Opinion of Member DuBester); accord NTEU, Chapter 160, 67 FLRA 482, 487 (2014) (Dissenting Opinion of Member DuBester).

Member Pizzella, dissenting:

Today we address for the ninth, tenth,<sup>1</sup> and eleventh<sup>2</sup> time, a variation of the same argument that the American Federation of Government Employees (AFGE), by and through its Council 33 and various locals, has challenged various sections of Article 18 of their collective-bargaining agreement (CBA).

This time, AFGE, Local 525 (representing employees at the Federal Correctional Institution Williamsburg, Salters, South Carolina) (Local 525) tries to force the Bureau of Prisons (Bureau) to negotiate, at the local level, compressed work schedules for correctional officers even though the U.S. Court of Appeals for the District of Columbia Circuit previously determined that “Article 18 ‘covers and preempts challenges to all specific outcomes of the assignment process’ . . . [that concern] the discretion Article 18 itself affords to the [Bureau].”<sup>3</sup>

The majority acknowledges that the court in Federal BOP v. FLRA<sup>4</sup> held that Article 18(d) “represent[s] the agreement of the parties about the procedures by which a warden” “assigns” and “designates” officers for “posts” and “shift[s].”<sup>5</sup> Article 18(d) establishes a unique assignment process for correctional officers who under that provision get to select their own schedules and decide for themselves, each and every quarter, whether or not they will work a compressed schedule.<sup>6</sup> Article 18(d) applies only to correctional officers,<sup>7</sup> and the parties’ agreement does not provide that flexibility to any other group of employees.<sup>8</sup>

It stands to reason then that Article 18(b), which permits the negotiation of compressed work schedules “at the local level,” could only apply to employees of the Bureau who do not serve as correctional officers (e.g. food service employees;<sup>9</sup> financial management and education employees;<sup>10</sup> and lock shop, unit management, and drug treatment employees).<sup>11</sup> On the other hand, the Article 18(d)-assignment process negotiated by the parties to apply to correctional officers inexorably includes compressed work schedules because, as noted above, Article 18(d) addressed “all specific outcomes of the assignment process.”<sup>12</sup>

When parties negotiate a collective-bargaining agreement, one expects that the agreement will stand, as negotiated in its plain language, for the duration of its term.

Therefore, it is inexplicable to me that the majority concludes that Article 18(b), requires the Bureau to bargain compressed work schedules for correctional officers all over again. Contrary to the majority, I would conclude that the matter is covered by Article 18(d) and that the Bureau has no further obligation to bargain.

No case could better demonstrate the deficiencies in the manner by which the Authority applies its self-styled covered-by doctrine. The Authority needs to revisit not only the manner in which we apply the standard but to reexamine the Statutory purpose that it should serve.<sup>13</sup>

The Federal Service Labor-Management Relations Statute (the Statute)<sup>14</sup> affords federal unions, employees, and agencies the privilege to negotiate collective-bargaining agreements.<sup>15</sup> Such agreements promote “the effective conduct of government [business]” by “bring[ing] [a] sense of finality [and] predictability” into the relationship between federal unions, employees, and agencies.<sup>16</sup> But, it seems obvious to me that permitting Local 525 to demand bargaining over a matter that was already negotiated in good faith and for the benefit of correctional officers does not bring any sense of finality and runs counter to the Statute’s purpose to foster “an effective and efficient [g]overnment.”<sup>17</sup>

Thank you.

DECISION ON MOTION FOR SUMMARY JUDGMENT

This case arose under the Federal Service Labor-Management Relations Statute (Statute), 5 U.S.C. §§ 7101-7135 and the revised Rules and Regulations of the Federal Labor Relations Authority (Authority/FLRA), Part 2423.

Based upon unfair labor practice (ULP) charges filed by the American Federation of Government Employees, Local 525 (Union), a Complaint and Notice of Hearing was issued by the Regional Director of the Atlanta Region of the FLRA. The Complaint alleges that the U.S. Department of Justice, Federal Bureau of Prisons, Federal Correctional Institution Williamsburg, Salters, South Carolina (Respondent/FCI Williamsburg) violated § 7116(a)(1) and (5) of the Statute by refusing to bargain upon the request of the Union over compressed work schedules for Morning Watch housing unit officers. The Respondent filed a timely Answer denying the allegations of the complaint.

On February 29, 2012, the Respondent filed a Motion for Summary Judgment (MSJ), asserting that there are no genuine issues of material facts in this matter and that it had no duty to bargain pursuant to Article 18, section d of the parties' Master Agreement (MA). The Respondent requested that the case be decided based upon its MSJ and its attachments, and any subsequent response by the General Counsel, in lieu of a hearing. On March 2, 2012, the General Counsel (GC) filed its Response to the Respondent's MSJ and Cross-Motion for Summary Judgment. The GC contends that Respondent had an obligation to bargain and requested that its MSJ be granted. The GC agreed with the Statement of Facts presented by the Respondent in its MSJ and also attached five exhibits in support of its requested remedy. By Order of the Chief Administrative Law Judge, the hearing in this matter was indefinitely postponed on March 7, 2012.

Having carefully reviewed the pleadings, exhibits, and arguments of the parties, I have determined that this matter can be decided on the motions for summary judgment and therefore, a hearing is not necessary pursuant to 5 C.F.R. § 2423.27. The Authority has held that motions for summary judgment filed under that section serve the same purpose and are governed by the same principles as motions filed in the United States District Courts under Rule 56 of the Federal Rules of Civil Procedures. Dep't of VA, VA Med. Ctr., Nashville, Tenn., 50 FLRA 220, 222 (1995). Summary judgment is appropriate when there is no "genuine dispute as to any material fact" and the moving party is entitled to judgment as a matter of law. Based on the record, I find that the Respondent violated § 7116(a)(1) and (5) of the Statute when it refused to negotiate, upon the request of the Union, over compressed work schedules for Morning Watch housing unit officers. I make the following findings of fact, conclusions and recommendations in support of that determination.

FINDINGS OF FACT

1. The Union filed the original charge in this proceeding on August 8, 2011, and a copy was served on the Respondent. (Compl. & Ans.)
2. The Respondent is an agency within the meaning of § 7103(a)(3) of the Statute. (Compl. & Ans.)
3. (a) The American Federation of Government Employees, AFL-CIO (AFGE) is a labor organization within the meaning of § 7103(a)(4) of the Statute and is the exclusive representative of a nationwide unit of Respondent's employees. (Compl. & Ans.)

- (b) AFGE, Local 525 (Union) is an agent of AFGE for the purpose of representing unit employees at Respondent's Federal Correctional Institution Williamsburg, Salters, South Carolina (FCI Williamsburg). (Compl. & Ans.)
4. At all material times, Steven Langford occupied the position of Labor Management Relations Chairperson and was a supervisor and/or management official within the meaning of § 7103(a)(10) and (11) of the Statute and was acting on behalf of the Respondent. (Compl. & Ans.)
  5. On July 26, 2011, the Union submitted a request from Thomas Peavy, President, to Warden John R. Owen to negotiate a compressed work schedule (CWS) for Morning Watch correctional services officers working in the housing units. (R. Ex. 1)
  6. On July 29, 2011, the Respondent, by letter from Steven Langford to Peavy, responded and stated as follows: The Agency has already fulfilled its duty to bargain in good faith regarding the Morning Watch Housing Unit positions. The Master Agreement, Article 18, covers and preempts all disputes about particular rosters issued pursuant to and in compliance with the procedures in Article 18(d). The procedures prescribed in Article 18 cover the substance of all decisions reached by following those procedures. Article 18, specifically in sections d and g, reflects the parties' earlier bargaining over the impact and implementation of the Agency's statutory right to assign work. The Agency's statutory right to assign work includes determining the numbers, types, and positions assigned to any work project or tour of duty. Specifically, these provisions represent the agreement of the parties about the procedures by which a Warden formulates a roster, assigns officers to posts, and designates officers for the relief shift. The parties' prior collective bargaining reflected in Article 18, reserved the discretion to the Warden to formulate the rosters. Therefore, the Agency has no further duty to engage in additional bargaining regarding the work schedules of the Morning Watch Housing Unit positions. (Agency Ex. 2)
  7. On July 31, 2011, the Union responded to the Respondent's July 29 memorandum. The Union quoted Article 18(b): "The parties at the national level agree that requests for flexible and/or compressed work schedules may be negotiated at the local level, in accordance with 5 USC." Peavy also pointed out that the agency had negotiated and approved compressed work schedules within Food Services, Recreation and Unit Management. "These departments, staffed by bargaining unit employees are also subject to Article 18, Hours of Work, of our Master Agreement. The Union has not and will not waive any rights afforded by the agreement. Pursuant to 5 USC and Article 18, section b 1, 2, and 3, the Union reiterates its' intent to negotiate a compressed work schedule for the morning watch housing units. It is clear in section b that the parties agreed to negotiate compressed work schedules at the local level, outside the provisions you indicated in your response." (Agency Ex. 3)
  8. On August 5, 2011, the Respondent replied, expounding on its reasoning that it had no duty to bargain pursuant to Article 18(d) and (g). Specifically, the Respondent stated Article 18, sections d and g reserved the discretion to the Warden to formulate the rosters for correctional services department. Additionally, the Respondent stated that Article 18, section b did not create a new duty to bargain the schedules of positions located in the correctional services department. With regard to the compressed work schedules agreements for employees in Food Service, Recreation and Unit Management, the Agency points out that the schedules in those departments are not covered by Article 18, sections d and g like the schedules for employees in correctional services. (Agency Ex. 4).

9. AFGE and the Respondent are parties to a Master Agreement (MA) covering employees in the bargaining unit described in paragraph 3(a) and (b), which has been effective since March 9, 1998.
10. Article 18 of the parties' MA is entitled Hours of Work (Agency Ex. 5). Section b addresses compressed work schedules and provides:

The parties at the national level agree that requests for flexible and/or compressed work schedules may be negotiated at the local level, in accordance with 5 USC.

1. any agreement reached by the local parties will be forwarded to the Office of General Counsel in the Central Office who will coordinate a technical and legal review. A copy of this agreement will also be forwarded to the President of the Council of Prison Locals for review. These reviews will be completed within thirty (30) calendar days from the date the agreement is signed;
2. if the review at the national level reveals that the agreement is insufficient from a technical and/or legal standpoint, the Agency will provide a written response to the parties involved, explaining the adverse impact the schedule had or would have upon the Agency. The parties at the local level may elect to renegotiate the schedule and/or exercise their statutory appeal rights; and
3. any agreement that is renegotiated will be reviewed in accordance with the procedures outlined in this section.

Section d states that quarterly rosters for correctional services employees will be prepared in accordance with the procedures set forth. Section 2 states "seven (7) weeks prior to the upcoming quarter, the Employer will ensure that a blank roster for the upcoming quarter will be posted in an area that is accessible to all correctional staff, for the purpose of giving those employees advance notice of assignments, days off, and shifts that are available for which they will be given the opportunity to submit their preference requests." Section g concerns procedures relating to sick and annual relief positions.

POSITIONS OF THE PARTIES

General Counsel

The GC asserts that the Respondent violated § 7116(a)(1) and (5) of the Statute by refusing to bargain over compressed work schedules for Morning Watch housing unit officers. Under § 7116(a)(5) of the Statute, it is an unfair labor (ULP) practice for an agency to refuse to bargain in good faith. The duty to bargain in good faith requires an agency to negotiate during the term of a collective bargaining agreement on union-initiated proposals that are not "covered by" the agreement. U.S. Dep't of HHS, SSA, Balt., Md., 47 FLRA 1004, 1013 (1993). A proposal is "covered by" the parties' agreement if the matter is expressly contained in the agreement or if the matter is inseparably bound up with, and thus plainly an aspect of, a subject "covered by" the agreement. Dep't of the Treasury, IRS, Kan. City Serv. Ctr., Kan. City, Mo., 57 FLRA 126, 128-29 (2001).

Relying on a recent D.C. Circuit Court decision, the Agency asserts that the issue of compressed work schedules for housing unit officers is "covered by" Articles 18, sections d and g. See Fed. BOP v. FLRA, 654 F.3d 91 (2011) (BOP v. FLRA). The court held that BOP did not have an obligation to bargain over its decision to fill only "mission critical" positions on the quarterly rosters. Id. at 92. The court reasoned that Article 18, section d was the result of impact and implementation bargaining over the Agency's right to assign work, which includes the right to determine how many positions will be available on the quarterly roster. Id. at 95. Thus, the procedures in Article 18, section d for filling and posting the quarterly rosters covered the issue of which positions would be available on the roster.

The Court's decision in BOP v. FLRA stands in sharp contrast to this case because the D.C. Circuit Court was not faced with a specific provision that gave AFGE the right to bargain over the number of positions on the quarterly roster. There is no such provision in Article 18. Here, Article 18, section b specifically gives the Union the right to bargain over compressed work schedules. The Respondent argues that it does not have an obligation to bargain over compressed work schedules for correctional officers, but nothing in Article 18, section b indicates that any positions were exempt from this broad bargaining obligation. See Level 3 Comme'ns LLC v.

Liebert Corp., 535 F.3d 1146, 1154 (10th Cir. 2008) (specific contract provisions control the effect of general provisions); Restatement (First) of Contracts 236(c) (1932) (where there is inconsistency between general and specific contract provisions, specific provisions generally qualify the meaning of general provisions). Additionally, Article 18, sections d and g do not mention compressed work schedules. If the parties had intended Article 18, sections d and g to foreclose bargaining over compressed work schedules for correctional officers, surely they would have included language to that effect in the agreement.

In addition to the express language in Article 18, section b that gives the Union the right to bargain compressed work schedules, the Flexible and Alternative Work Schedules Act also requires the agency to bargain in this situation. 5 U.S.C. §§ 6120-6133. Under the Work Schedules Act, proposals seeking to negotiate alternative work schedules are fully negotiable, subject only to the Act itself. NFFE, Local 1998, IAMAW, Fed. Dist. 1, 60 FLRA 141, 143 (2004). Such proposals are within the duty to bargain and are enforceable under the Statute. Id. Alternative work schedule proposals are negotiable even if they conflict with the management rights clause in the Statute, 5 U.S.C. § 7106, further illustrating that the logic of BOP v. FLRA does not apply in this case. See U.S. Dep't of Labor, Wash., D.C., 59 FLRA 131, 135 (2003) (DOL). The D.C. Circuit Court reasoned that Article 18, sections d and g were the result of impact and implementation over BOP's right to assign work and determine the number of employees assigned to particular positions. But the Union's right to negotiate compressed work schedules is broader than AFGE's right in BOP v. FLRA because of the existence of the Work Schedules Act.

Given the broad bargaining mandate in the Work Schedules Act, there would need to be specific language in the bargaining agreement waiving AFGE's right to negotiate compressed work schedules for correctional officers if that is what the parties intended. See U.S. FDA, U.S. FDA, Region VII, Kan. City, Mo., 19 FLRA 555, 557 (1985) (union's waiver of a statutory right must be clear and unmistakable). There is no such language in Article 18 or anywhere else in the bargaining agreement.

Based on the Work Schedules Act and the clear language in Article 18, section b, the Union's request to bargain compressed work schedules for Morning Watch housing unit officers is not "covered by" Article 18, sections d and g. Accordingly, the Respondent violated section 7116(a)(1) and (5) of the Statute by refusing to bargain with the Union.

The General Counsel also argued that the appropriate remedy in this matter should include a bargaining order to be posted on bulletin boards and e-mailed to bargaining unit employees.

Respondent

The Respondent asserts that the agency had no duty to bargain a compressed work schedule for correctional service department staff working the morning watch post in the housing unit. If a collective bargaining agreement covers a particular subject, then the parties to that agreement "are absolved of any further duty to bargain about that matter during the term of the agreement." BOP v. FLRA, 654 F.3d at 91, citing Dep't of the Navy v. FLRA, 92 F.2d 48 (D.C. Cir. 1992). For a subject to be deemed covered by, there need not be an "exact congruence" between the matter in dispute and a provision of the agreement, so long as the agreement expressly or implicitly indicates the parties reached a negotiated agreement on the subject. BOP v. FLRA, 654 F.3d at 91, citing NTEU v. FLRA, 452 F.3d 793, 796 (D.C. Cir. 2006).

According to the Respondent, Article 18 of the MA covers the hours of work and section d of Article 18 covers any issue regarding the correctional services roster and therefore preempts any dispute. Specifically, Article 18 d delineates how the quarterly rosters for the correctional services department will be prepared. (R. Ex. 3). As part of the procedures under Article 18, section d, work assignments are determined on a quarterly basis through a bidding process. Seven weeks prior to the end of the quarter, a roster will be posted listing the positions that will be available to the officers for the next quarter. Once a roster is posted, officers will bid for posts and shifts, and assignments are made according to seniority. Once the assignments are made the roster will be forwarded to the Warden for final approval. The completed roster will then be posted three weeks prior to the effective date of the quarter change. (R. Ex. 3)

Section 7106(a) gives an agency an exclusive, non-negotiable right to assign work, but under § 7106(b), it may bargain with the representative of its employees over the procedures it will use when it exercises that authority and the appropriate arrangements it will make for any employee adversely affected by a particular action. Article 18, sections d and g reflect the parties' earlier bargaining over the impact and implementation of the Agency's statutory right to assign work. These provisions represent the agreement of the parties about the procedures by which a Warden formulates a roster, assigns officers to posts, and designates officers for relief shift. As part of this agreement, through Article 18, the union secured from the agency procedural checks of the Agency's authority to assign work, including the advance publication of available posts, solicitation of bids, and a limited right to appeal an assignment. As such Article 18 is a compromise about how and when management would exercise its right to assign work, the implementation of those procedures and the resulting impact. Therefore, Article 18 covers and preempts challenges to all specific outcomes of the assignment process and does not give rise to a further duty to bargain. BOP v. FLRA, 654 F.3d at 91 (Agency's decision to implement a "mission critical roster" was "covered by" Article 18 of the collective bargaining agreement).

Further, the provisions of Article 18, section b do not change the agency's duty as it relates to bargaining the available posts for the correctional services department. Article 18, section b merely conveys the parties' agreement to negotiate compressed work schedules at the local level. However, it is clear from Article 18, sections d and g, the decision regarding the schedules, posts, etc., as it relates to the correctional services department has already been negotiated. As such, Article 18 reserved the discretion to the Warden to formulate the rosters for the respective institution and there is no further duty to bargain. Therefore, the agency properly refused to bargain over the issue of a compressed work schedule for Morning Watch correctional service housing unit officers. Since the agency had no duty to bargain a request for a compressed work schedule for the Morning Watch correctional services officers working a housing unit post, the complaint should be dismissed and the agency's motion for summary judgment should be granted.

ANALYSIS AND CONCLUSIONS

The "covered by" doctrine is "available to a party claiming that it is not obligated to bargain because it has already bargained over the subject at issue." See Soc. Sec. Admin., 64 FLRA 199, 202 (2009) (internal quotation marks and citations omitted). The "covered by" defense has two prongs. Id. Under the first prong of that defense, "a party properly may refuse to bargain over a matter that is expressly addressed in the parties' agreement." Id. Also, under the second prong, "a party properly may refuse to bargain if a matter is inseparably bound up with, and[,] thus[,] an aspect of," a subject "covered by" the agreement. Id.

Here, the Respondent contends that it has no duty to bargain over compressed work schedules for employees in correctional services because the way in which quarterly rosters are established and filled out for such employees is "covered by" Article 18 of the parties' agreement. The Respondent implicitly argues that, when sections b and d of Article 18 are read together, that article provides that negotiations at the local level may occur over compressed work schedules for all bargaining unit employees except those employees who work in correctional services.

In this matter, I find that the Respondent's contentions are without merit. Consistent with the Act, the plain language of Article 18, section b expressly recognizes that local negotiations over compressed work schedules at the local level may take place and does not prohibit such negotiation on behalf of employees in any department, including correctional services. See Agency Exhibit 5 (providing that "[t]he parties at the national level agree that requests for flexible and/or compressed work schedules may be negotiated at the local level"); see also DOL, 59 FLRA at 134 (Chairman Cabaniss concurring) (indicating that the Authority has consistently "held that the implementation and administration of alternative work schedules is fully negotiable, subject only to the [Act] or other laws superseding the Act, and without regard to management rights under the Statute"). The plain wording of sections d and g also do not limit section b in any way. Specifically, Article 18, section d does not reference section b or address compressed work schedules. Rather, section d merely provides that, to prepare a quarterly roster for correctional services employees, the Agency shall post a blank roster detailing available assignments and shifts that such employees can bid on, and a roster committee comprised of both Agency and Union representatives will formulate roster assignments. Section g relates to sick and annual positions without any reference to compressed work schedules.

Further, the Respondent's reliance on BOP v. FLRA is misplaced. In that case, BOP issued a memorandum providing that "the quarterly roster for each institution should include only those posts deemed 'critical' to the mission of that institution," and BOP denied the union's request to bargain over the implementation of its mission critical standard. BOP v. FLRA, 654 F.3d at 93. The D.C. Circuit held that Article 18, section d covered all disputes concerning rosters issued pursuant to that provision and that BOP was not required to bargain over its mission critical standard because rosters implementing that standard were "covered by" Article 18 of the parties' agreement. Id. at 95-97. However, neither BOP v. FLRA nor the Authority's related decisions addressed bargaining over compressed work schedules under Article 18, Section b of the parties' agreement. Thus, I find that BOP v. FLRA is inapposite.

Consequently, I find that the Respondent has not raised a valid "covered by" defense. See U.S. Dep't of HUD, 66 FLRA 106, 109 (2011) (indicating that "the Authority has declined to find a matter 'covered by' an agreement [when] the agreement specifically contemplates bargaining”); DOE, 56 FLRA at 12-13 (finding that, based on the wording of bargaining provisions and “the parties’ practices pursuant to their agreement,” the respondent failed to raise a valid “covered by” defense); cf. U.S. DOJ, Fed. BOP, FCI, Fairton, N.J., 62 FLRA 187, 189-90 (2007) (determining that the respondent established a “covered by” defense because the plain language of a particular article allowed the respondent “to change work assignments on the same shift without notice,” and another article, which required the employer, in assigning work, to comply with Authority precedent, did not alter such language). Accordingly, I conclude that the Respondent violated § 7116(a)(1) and (5) of the Statute by refusing to bargain with the Union over compressed work schedules for Morning Watch housing unit employees in correctional services. DOE, 56 FLRA at 13.

REMEDY

As requested by the General Counsel, I will order an appropriate cease and desist order to be signed by the Warden. In accordance with the Authority’s recent decision that unfair labor practice notices should, as a matter of course, be posted on bulletin boards and electronically whenever an agency uses such methods to communicate with bargaining unit employees, such postings are ordered. See U.S. DOJ, Fed. BOP, Fed. Transfer Ctr., Okla. City, Okla., 67 FLRA 221 (2014).
