FOR IMMEDIATE RELEASE
July 10, 2023

The FLRA Revises Its Regulations to Enable Parties to Request Email Service of Documents Issued in Cases Before the Authority Members, and Invites Comments.

Today, the Federal Labor Relations Authority (the FLRA) issued a Federal Register notice implementing an interim final rule that amends 5 C.F.R. § 2429.12 to allow parties using the FLRA's eFiling system to request email service of decisions, notices, and orders issued by the FLRA's three-Member, decisional component (the Authority) in individual cases.

The amendment applies only to documents issued by the FLRA's Office of Case Intake and Publication in cases pending before the FLRA's Members. It does not apply to documents issued in cases pending before other FLRA offices or components, such as the Office of Administrative Law Judges or the Office of the General Counsel.

Although the interim final rule is effective July 11, 2023, the FLRA welcomes comments on the rule. Any written comments must be received on or before August 10, 2023. The Notice includes the instructions for submitting comments.
